Important

Starting estimates cover Everlasting's transition coordination and on-site oversight. Third-party donation, removal, recycling, or disposal costs are quoted separately and may vary based on the volume and type of household contents, accessibility, and services required.

Families provide instructions regarding belongings to be retained, donated, or removed. Everlasting does not appraise or determine the monetary or sentimental value of personal property. Family-designated personal belongings are separated and left in an agreed-upon area for retrieval; Everlasting does not transport those belongings to another residence or personal storage location.

Final pricing is personalized after consultation so your family understands the anticipated scope and cost before services begin.

You decide what matters. We follow your instructions.
